One day this terrible thing happened. When I woke up I was an ant. I was very sad because I was so tiny and no one could hear me talking to them. So I decided to go on an adventure. My family went on a picnic even though they couldn’t find me. So I decided to hold on to my sister’s shoe. When we got to the picnic they laid out their blanket and basket and began to eat. I then took then picked up the apple slice and began to carry it off. Then they noticed and started to kill me. I tried to yell but they couldn’t hear me. Then before long, they caught me and smashed me. But then I woke up from my terrible dream.
I was a worker ant. I had to work very hard. Then I got mad because the queen didn’t have to do any work. I decided to stop working and lay around like the queen. Then all the other workers decided to go along with me. We all stopped working. But then there was no food for our colony to eat. Pretty soon we learned that maybe this wasn’t a good idea. We were tired of being hungry so we went back to work. We gathered lots of food for the colony and have never been hungry again.
The Day in the Life of an Ant
By: Alex

I was an ant that went to ant school. We learned to be very smart at ant school. We learned to get food. We had to be very careful when getting food because we didn’t want to die. We also learned how to take care of the queen. The queen was mean because she didn’t work. We also had to learn how to take care of the larvae. That was a hard job! I love ant school. We get tasty snacks everyday like candy. When we finish school we get to be worker ants for the queen of our colony.
