Online Teaching Workshop Reflection

Lisa Temsey

Description: This project was created as an assignment for my graduate assistantship as well as an assignment for the Strategies for Online Teaching and Learning course. I created a module in Springboard to help instruct new online instructors how to manage their time efficiently when teaching online. This module involved a discussion board component which allowed participants to discuss issues they believe may occur when teaching online. The module was created with both visual and auditory learners kept in mind.

Impact: This project will hopefully teach new online instructors how to effectively manage their time when teaching an online course.

Intent: The intent of this project was to have new online instructors proceed through this self-paced course providing them with tips for being an effective online instructor.
